

"Honoring Our Marines Today and Tomorrow"

Welcome Marine Corps families, parents, spouses, friends and Marines! We're thrilled to be planning the 2nd Annual Marine Parents conference and excited to be bringing top speakers and sessions two years in a row. The 2nd Annual Marine Parents conference will be held in St. Louis, Missouri, April 20-22, 2007 at the beautiful Adam's Mark Hotel located in the heart of downtown, at the foot of the St. Louis Gateway Arch.

In keeping with this year's conference theme, "Honoring Our Marines Today and Tomorrow", our keynote speaker will be LtGen. George R. Christmas who is currently the President of the Marine Corps Heritage Foundation. Additional speakers will be Colonel Jack Jackson, USMC Retired, and Dr. Mike Colson, former Navy Commander and Chaplain who is now the outreach coordinator with the Seattle Vet Center assisting returning Iraq and Afghanistan veterans. We'll be including several active duty Marines as speakers, authors, and presenters as well.

We are inviting a wide variety of outstanding authors for the 2007 conference, including New York Times best selling author Andrew Carroll, Patrick K. O'Donnell author of We Were One, Dr. Bridget Cantrell, author of Downrange to Iraq and Back, and Kristen Henderson, author of While They're at War.

As our music guest, we have invited Mike Corrado, a USMC Iraq Veteran whose song and anthem to our service members "On My Watch Tonight" continues to spread throughout the country among US Troops and supporters alike.

Neither the United States Marine Corps nor any other component of the Department of Defense has approved, endorsed, or authorized this service.
